

pick six

1 MARINA BAY FINANCIAL CENTRE

Location, location, location. All the district's office towers are able to tap the prosperous energies of Marina Bay. Located at the sheltered end of the bay, the centre provides protection for businesses occupying its towers, as well as a body of water (wealth). The pair of water buffalo sculptures in the ground-floor plaza are well placed and an excellent feng shui energiser.

2 NGEE ANN CITY

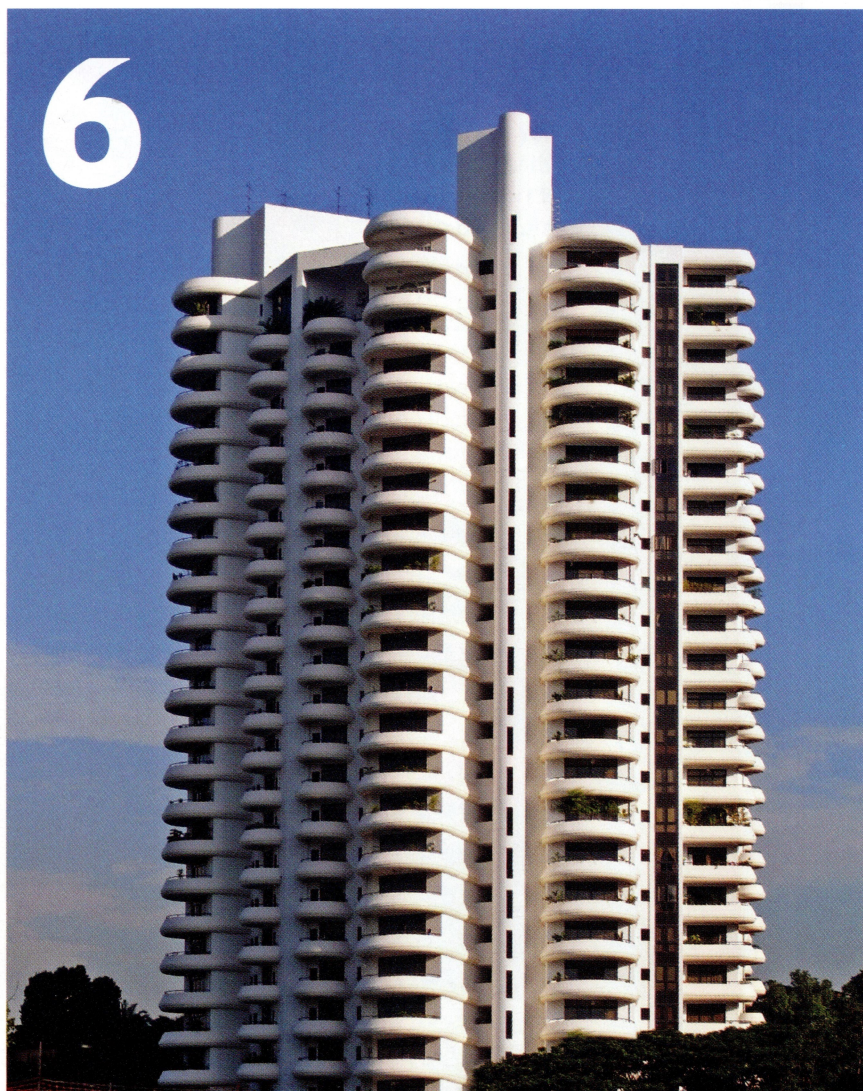

The grandeur and strength of this reddish-brown shopping and commercial centre, with its wide, encompassing frontage, combine with the power of a pond and fountain: water is wealth. This was once a burial ground and in keeping with feng shui tradition, ancient burial grounds were specially selected owing to the excellent feng shui properties of the land.

3 MARINA BAY SANDS

This building represents perfect balance. All five elements are present – water (the bay), metal (the three coin-shaped roofs of the convention centre, the entertainment centre and the shopping mall), earth (the three hotel towers and skypark, represent a mountain), wood (the interior and exterior landscaping) and fire (the energy of people and lights).

Feng Shui Master Louisa Ong-lee selects six of Singapore's most auspicious architectural sites

4 SANDCRAWLER

The Asian headquarters of Lucasfilm sits on land shaped like a diamond. Fire is an important element in this building, with its purpose of promoting the entertainment business. To feed this radiant flame, the serene and rejuvenating landscaped gardens, with their fish-filled ponds, waterfalls and vegetation, produce an excellent water-wood-fire combination.

5 SUNTEC CITY

The focal point here is the central, golden-ringed fountain of wealth, which links and anchors the five buildings around it. The golden ring represents the element metal, producing water, which symbolises wealth being created, collected and stored. The circular road surrounding the fountain activates its energy and emphasises abundance.

6 REGENCY PARK

This condominium has wonderful, bright energies in its halls, encouraging good opportunities to flow within. The property is located on a road shaped like a meandering river, which in feng shui is considered auspicious because rivers deposit fertile silt on their banks, enriching their valleys. When observed from above, the roof design represents butterflies and birds in flight.